GAME FROM MILWAUKEE.

Both Pitchers Effective, but Donnelly's Brilliant Support Proves Too Much for Cushman's Men.

There wasn't much shouting about yesterday's game. It was the quietest victory Indianapolis has won this season. The trouble was that Sharsig's men couldn't hit the ball, and they were never out of the woods until the last inning had been played. It was another of those nerve-trying affairs to which the Indianapolis crowds are becoming accustomed. When Motz strikes out three times in one game it can go on record as a tolerably close argument. That's what he did yesterday, and he wasn't the only one who had trouble finding Hastings. That deceptive gentleman fooled the Hoosiers right and left. They reached wildly for his curves but connected safely but five times and one of those a scratch.

Aside from the result there were two or three satisfactory features, however. One was the good showing made by Donnelly, who was hit for only six singles and a double. Another was the splendid infield work of the home team, and a third the fast fielding of Dairympie and Henry. The former cut off two vicious-looking flies in the ninth inning, which sent cold chills down the spinal columns of the spectators. The catches were both of a remarkable character. Henry pulled down three files, one of them a long foul which it scarcely seemed possible for him to get under. Two pretty double plays marked the infield work. McCarthy was off in his play, muffing Walsh's easy fly in the third. Only a double play saved the error from proving disastrous. Newman was the only visitor who could size Donnelly with any effect. All three of the Milwaukee errors were expensive, and luck was with Indianapolls in that regard.

McCarthy opened the game with a single to left, which landed him on third, owing to Long's letting the ball get by him. A passed ball permitted him to trot home. The side was rather easily retired, Gray, meanwhile, getting to first on balls, but being left there. Newman hammered out a two-bagger to left as a Milwaukee starter and Clingman sacrificed. Howe reached first on balls and Carey hit a long fly to Henry, on which Newman scored, Howe reaching second on the throw to the plate. Waish's single to center sent Howe home. Long got a base on balls, but was caught napping a moment later by Westlake's quick throw.

Indianapolis took a lead in the fifth when Donnelly was given a life by Carey's drop of Hastings's throw. McCarthy forced him out at second and Henry hit a high bounder to Hastings, who tried to cut McCarthy off at second but failed. Gray sacrificed and Motz hit a hot one, which Walsh was unable to handle, scoring McCarthy and Henry. In the last half Milwaukee tied the score and Indianapolis pulled out of a very dangerous hole. Chingman hit safe to left, Howe got a base on balls and Carey a single to left. With the bases filled, Walsh hit to Mills and was doubted with Carey, Clingman scoring. Long was disposed of by Gray and Motz.

Again in the seventh Indianapolis forged ahead, McCarthy getting to first on balls, stealing second and keeping right on to third on Lohman's had throw. Henry was retired at first, but Gray hit hard and safe to left, sending McCarthy home. A passed ball let Gray to second, but Motz struck out and Dalrympie popped up a lit-tle foul fly to Lohman. Milwaukee wasn't to be stiaken off in this fashion, however, and clung on to Indianapolis with what appeared to be a death grip. In their half the visitors tied the score again, Newman opening with a single to center and Clingman hitting a high bounder which Donnelly made a mistake in trying field. With two men on base and nobody out things looked a trifle shady, but Howe forced Clingman out at second, stealing that base himself just afterwards. Carey hit to Shields and was thrown out at first, Newman scoring the tie run. Walsh was cared for by Donnelly and Motz. Indianapolis scored the winning run in the eighth, Westlake being hit by pitcher as a starter. Mills followed with a single to left and Shields was also hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Donnelly's fly to Newman let Westlake in. McCarthy flew to Lohman and Henry to Wittrock. In the ninth Dalrymple captured long drives by Newman and Clingman, and Howe hit to Shields and was thrown out at first, ending the game. There were 1,800 people out. Score:

Base Ball Notes. Those two double plays came in mighty handy yesterday, and cut a big figure in Henry is playing a great field these days. His throws to the plate are beauties, and for players all the time, and that good ones are scarce and hard to get. Milwaukee plays here to-morrow and Tuesday, and will be followed by Kansas City, Sloux City and Detroit in order. Then the Indianapolis club goes West for nine games. Phillips will pitch to-morrow. The way Dalrymple sprinted for those two wicked flies in the ninth inning yesterday set the crowd wild. He landed them both after desperate work. Had Newman's drive got away from him it would have been a home run and the game might have been lost. Manager Sharsig went to Louisville yesterday afternoon to sign Jerry Denny and Larry Twitchell if it can be done for a reasonable figure. It is believed they will strengthen the Indianapolis team, both in hitting and fielding. Sharsig has his weather eye on a good pitcher. He cannot get another first-class one too soon, as the team has rough work cut out for it from now on. Manager Cushman is disappointed at not being able to get home to-day. He was going to try four new players in the game there against Indianapolis, and says the local cranks will find fault with him for failing to give them the scheduled game Under the circumstances they can scarce ly do so, as they should realize the folly of attempting to make a trip to Milwaukee and back within thirty-six hours just now. The Indianapolis and Milwaukee clubs were to have played in the latter city this afternoon, but the trip was very wisely called off. Railroad men told the managers of both teams that it would be taking big chances to go up last night with the expectation of getting through to Milwaukee. The clubs would have had to turn right around after the game and return here, as they are scheduled to play two more games in this city. The trip would have cost the teams $350, and they would scarcely have played even, had they been able to get through all right.

HOW SLATE IS MINED. Wonderful Skill of Those Who Cut It Up. Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The manner in which slate is mined and cut up for purposes to which it is applied is a process that is shown to only a few people because slate is not found in many places in this country, its principal sources being in upper New England and upper Pennsylvania. It is not taken out of shafts but it is quarried out of big holes in the earth. Some time ago, when the writer was at Bangor, Pa., he was invited to go down into one of these quarries, about two hundred feet deep, hand over hand on rope, but he declined the invitation, as think most inexperienced persons would do. The slate is blasted out in huge blocks and is hoisted out by steam and turned over to the men who know how to reduce it to the proper size. Huge blocks of it are taken in hand by these workmen, who cut a notch into one end of each piece. Then hey take a chisel and a mallet and they are so skillful in directing their blows that they can split the blocks of slate in almost any way they please. If you watch the slab on which one of them is working you will see a little hair line running through it, and presently the block will fall apart on either side of this mark. The workman will make this line go straight through the middle or to either corner, just as he likes. I do not know just how he does it, but he invariably accomplishes what he sets out The smaller pieces thus produced are taken in hand by another set of men, who split them up into sheets of the proper thickness for roof slate. This they do with long-bladed instrument about the shape of a putty knife, but many times larger, and if you saw them do it you would marvel how they got the sheets off without breaking them and also how they could split them so thin. Some of these men can take a sheet of slate only one inch thick and split it thirty-two times. The usual number of divisions is sixteen. These sheets are taken and cut into squares by ma-Wherever there are slate quarries you will find a great many Welshmen, for the

SPIRITLESS CONTEST FOR THE RICH REALIZATION STAKES.

Hornpipe Got Second Place, Rey El Santa Anita Third and Poor Senator Grady Sixth-Other Races.

NEW YORK, July 7 .- The attendance at Sheepshead Bay was the largest of the season to-day, and the betting was heavy. The sport opened with the second half of the double event. As soon as the flag fell Cesario took the lead and was never headed, Waltzer running third to Sir Galllad. In the second Glenmoyne was the favorite, and justified it by winning. The third race was an easy victory for Henry of Navarre, while Herald was second and Redskin third. In the steeple chase Rodman was the favorite and won easily. Summer Breeze, ridden by Wright, fell in the first round and his jockey was seriously hurt. The Realization stakes, which is the chief race of the year for three-year-olds, was a sorry spectacle this year, for Dobbins won in a common canter in the slow time of 2:25. When the flag fell they were all loath to make the pace. Even Gwendolyn, who was there for the purpose, did not go out, but galloped along a few lengths ahead of Dobbins, who was two lengths ahead of the other four, running side by side. This was the order passing the grand stand at the end of the first half mile. Positions were not materially changed at the mile post, although Senator Grady had dropped out of the bunch and was laboring behind. With a quarter of a mile to go, Dobbins shot out past Cwendolyn and took the lead almost in a single bound, while Hornpipe followed him under Taral's hands. Vankuren, on Rey el Santa Anita, was caught napping, and had to ride with hands and feet to catch the Keene colt. All through the stretch they had it hammer and tongs, but Hornpipe held on. to the end, and got second place by a short length. Gwendolyn was fourth, Longdale fifth, while Senator Grady was a very bad last. For so rich a stake it was a miserable exhibition, and was really only a contest of a quarter of a mile. Sum-

World's Fair Stakes Won by Lissack, an Outsider. CHICAGO, July 7 .- Precedent was not violated in the running of the World's Fair stakes at Washington Park to-day. It was won by Lissack, a rank outsider, at 30 to 1. Rey Del Caredes got off last with a running start and at once went through the field and took the lead, opening a three-length gap on the turn. SAMOAN AFFAIRS.

Situation Still Critical, but Little Actual Fighting-Hawaiian Advices.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7 .- The steamship Monowai arrived to-day with Samoan advices, dated June 20, and Honolulu news up to June 29. The Samoan correspondent of the Associated Press reports that, while there has been little actual fighting the situation is as critical as ever, with little prospects of a settlement in the near future. A few days after the sailing of the last steamer the warships there towed boats containing two thousand warriors to Aarua and called upon the rebels to surrender ten chiefs and fifty rifles within four hours, and threatening that the guns of the war vessels would shell the warriors in the event of refusal. Two of the rebel chiefs ran away, but eight others were finally sent on board the war ships with fifty rifles, only one of which was in working order. The guns were thrown into the ocean, as had been done with other rifles previously seized and the surrendered chiefs allowed to return to the island. The commanders of the war ships then ordered both the government warriors and the rebels to disperse. The government party obeyed, but the rebels immediately resumed the possession of their forts and sent out deflant messages to the King and commanders of the war vessels. The government troops and rebels are now in camp about two miles apart, both on the offensive. On the 3d instant the Aarua rebels made an attack on the government party amongst whom King Malietoa was supposed to be during the hour of evening prayers. The rebels fired a volley into the houses The fire was returned and the rebeis fled, after having captured forty guns and much ammunition. Three of the government party were killed and several wounded. The rebels lost an equal number. This is the first known instance in Samoan warfare of a night attack having been made. The people are in hourly expectation of a serious outbreak. A libel action is about to be brought by Lloyd Osborne, a stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson, against one of the loyal papers, the Samoa Weekly Herald, which journal has lately been indulging in some trenchant criticisms of the actions of Stevenson and those associated with him. King Malietoa, with the approval of Justice Ide, has released several of the prisoners who were sentenced in connection with the Mataafa rebellion and remitted the fines which were imposed upon them. An action has been brought against the government to recover the amount due for medicines supplied and medical attendance rendered to the Samoans who were wounded while fighting for the government. Much indignation is felt at President Schmidt's action in endeavoring to evade the payment of this debt. Samoa's treasury is almost empty and there is not the slightest prospect of its being filled. It is more than evident that the revenues of the islands cannot support two such officials as a Chief Justice and a President at the salaries now being paid. Owing to the unsettled state of the country business is entirely paralyzed. In Honolulu all is quiet. It had been definitely decided when the Monowai sai ed, to declare the new Constitution on the Fourth of July. There were rumors that the royalists were arming and getting ready to attempt a coup d'etat on that date, but the government authorities had taken extra precautions against a surprise. The marines on the United States steamer Philadelphia had been allowed to land for drill ag in and the British marines from the cruiser Champion had been refused the same privilege. British Minister Wodehouse wrote a letter of protest to the government and received in reply a sharp letter from Mr. Hatch, Minister of Foreign Affairs, stating that the attitude of the British minister had been unfavorable to the Hawalian government.

ACCURATE DESCRIPTION. A Man's Best Effort to Describe How a Lady Was Dressed.

Washington Post. While I was stopping at a friend's house the other day her husband came home, and before he had taken off his coat or hat "Well, I wish you could have seen the woman I saw to-day!" "Why, was she pretty?" we both asked. "Pretty? Well, I should say so, and she had the heatest little suit you ever saw. By Jove! I wish you could get something that looked like that once in a while," he said, turning to his wife, Well, tell us what it was like, and may be I can," she returned. "Oh, I can't tell you just what it was like, but it had those things over the shoulders like your purple dress."
"Do you mean ruffles?" interrupted his

"Yes, I guess they are ruffles. It had a skirt of peculiar color, and the basque was a sort of green. She wore a coat or something like most women wear, and a hat with a ribbon over it. She looked stunning, I tell you!" And his wife murmured: "I should think

VON KOTZE RELEASED

NOT GUILTY OF WRITING ANONY-MOUS LETTERS TO GERMANS.

Repression of Anarchy Worrying European Governments-Gossip of the Fatherland.

(Coppyright, 1894, by the Associated Press.) BERLIN, July 7.-There has been a marked revulsion of opinion in regard to the Von Kotze affair since the latter's release by order of the Emperor. Emperor William, to whom the documents in the case were submitted, is said to have ordered Von Kotze's release on the ground that there was no similarity between his handwriting and that of the letters and postal cards which caused so much annoyance among the aristocratic families of this city. Berliners, however, insist that this should have been discovered before the arrest of Von Kotze, who is now on his estate at Frisfelde, with his wife and little daughter. The name of another high official is now circulated as the culprit, but the solution of the mystery surrounding the anonymous letters seems to be no nearer than it was two weeks ago. Von Kotze is awaiting Emperor William's return from his trip to Norway. It is considered almost certain that he will not only resume office, but it is believed that the Emperor, after being satisfled of his innocence, will find some way to compensate him for his arrest. Anarchy seems to be the question of the day, and there is no indication that official circles place faith in the efficiency of international measures for the suppression of Anarchists. As for the clamor of the revival of the anti-Socialist laws, the langauge of the semi-official press shows clearly that it has not made an impression upon the government. Prince Bismarck's organs have been the noisiest advocates of exceptional legislation, but they are being reminded that at the very time these laws were being applied with the greatest vigor, the most diabolical outrage ever conceived by Anarchists was planned and was defeated, not by the operation of the laws, but by mere accident. Had not one of the conspirators betrayed the plot every living member of the Hohenzollern family would have been destroyed at the inauguration of the Germania monument at Neiderwald. It is stated that Chancellor Von Caprivi has reported to the Emperor that so long as every civilized government is ready to cooperate within its own frontiers and within the measure of its own laws for the detection and repression of anarchist crimes, there can be no need of a written compact to enforce the performance of duties which are equally prescribed by the common interests of society in every nation. The success of the commercial department, formed after the world's fair, in connection with the German consulate at Chicago, has induced the government to extend the idea to all the more important consulates outside of Europe, beginning with the leading cities of South America. The duty of these new departments will be to furnish German merchants with data for the extension of Germany's trade. The final returns of foreign trade for 1893 show an increase in exports of 137,000,000 marks. and a decrease in imports of 56,000,000. The returns for 1894 are expected to further justify the policy of the commercial treaties. A sensation has been caused by the fact that the Vorwarts, the leading Socialist organ, has published another confidential circular which the editor of that paper says he found on his table. The circular was issued by the administration of the Diederbarin district and called upon the burgomasters to furnish the government with the names of all conscripts known to sympathize with socialism and anarchism. The circular also instructed the burgomasters to make the necessary inquiries with absolute secrecy. The government will institute an inquiry into the leakage of official documents, which is becoming scandal. The Army Gazette has just published the new regulations, compiled under the Emperor's direction, for the protection of private soldiers against tyranny on the part of their officers. Noncommissioned officers are warned not to touch the men during the drill and they are also cautioned against straining the men by protracted renetitions of the same exercises. The chief reform, however, is the rule which allows a private soldier to lodge a complaint directly with the captain commanding his company and providing that the result of the inquiry shall be told to the private by his captain. As a set-off, heavy penalities are enacted to prevent frivolous and malicious complaints. It was falsely rumored here, yesterday that the celebreated actor, Ludwig, had committed suicide. The supposed cause was the arrest of his son, twenty-two years old, who was playing his first engagement at Cologne. His son, it appears, entered a jewelry shop and stole a large amount of jewelry. There is no motive for the crime, for young Ludwig is well off. He admits the theft, but he says that he does not recollect committing it. A curious feature of the case is that the young man is acting in a play by Paul Lindau called "The Other," in which the chief character is a law officer who becomes mentally afflicted by overwork, and who then turns burgler every night.
